Statement of Tri-State Transportation Campaign Executive Director Veronica Vanterpool on the waning support for the American Dream Meadowlands project:

American Dream Meadowlands has been a boondoggle from the start, plagued with financing troubles, lawsuits, environmental and traffic congestion concerns. New Jersey should be investing its limited resources in more sustainable development projects that capitalize on existing infrastructure, especially in areas already served by robust transit service. Recent media coverage indicates Governor Christie could soon be playing Monday morning quarterback as the potential success of this project -- and his faith in this project -- appear to be losing ground.
