

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

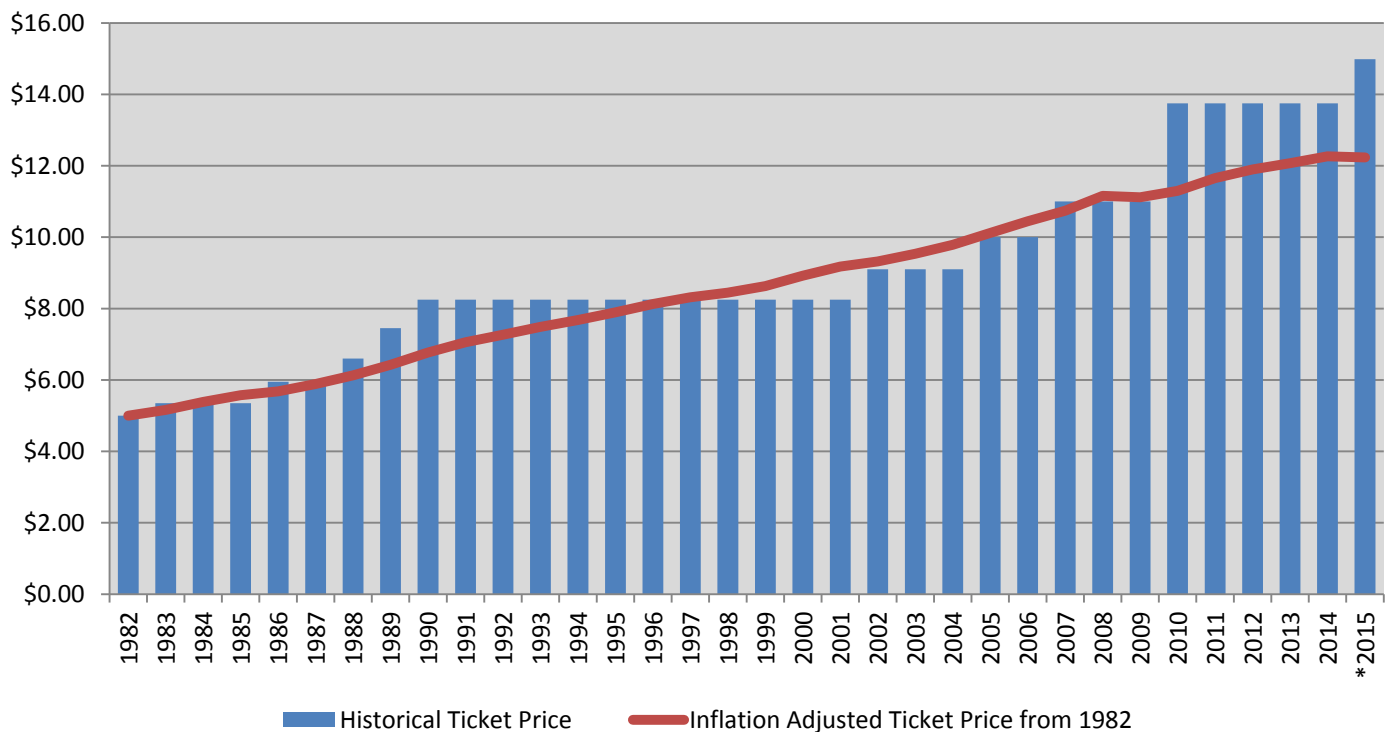

Aberdeen-Matawan to New York Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Aberdeen-Matawan to New York Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 23 to 24 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$5.00	$42.00	$140.00	$14.99	$127.53	$420.74	22.5%	24.1%	22.8%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Aberdeen-Matawan to NY Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

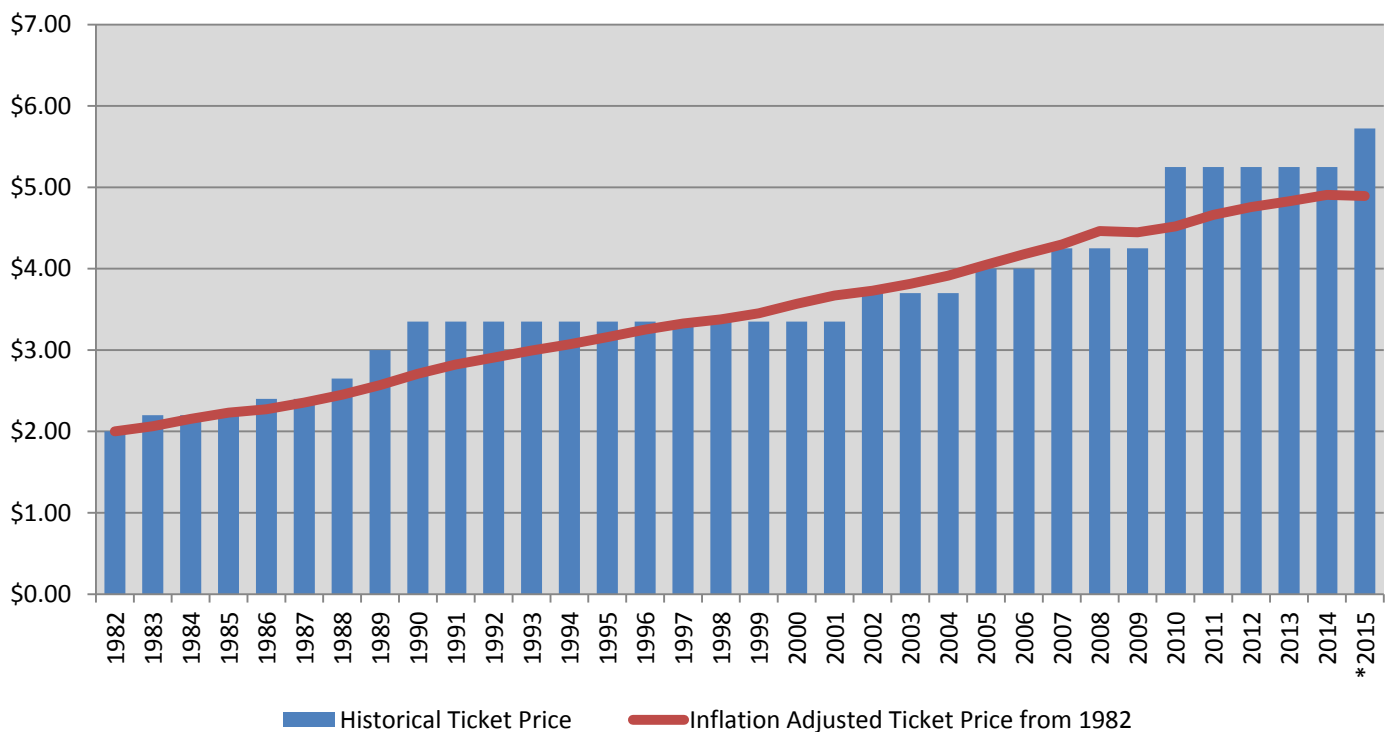

Bay Street to Hoboken Terminal

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Bay Street to Hoboken Terminal will have outpaced inflation by 17 to 26 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$2.00	$16.75	$56.00	$5.72	$51.78	$170.04	16.9%	26.3%	24.1%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Montclair Heights to Hoboken

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

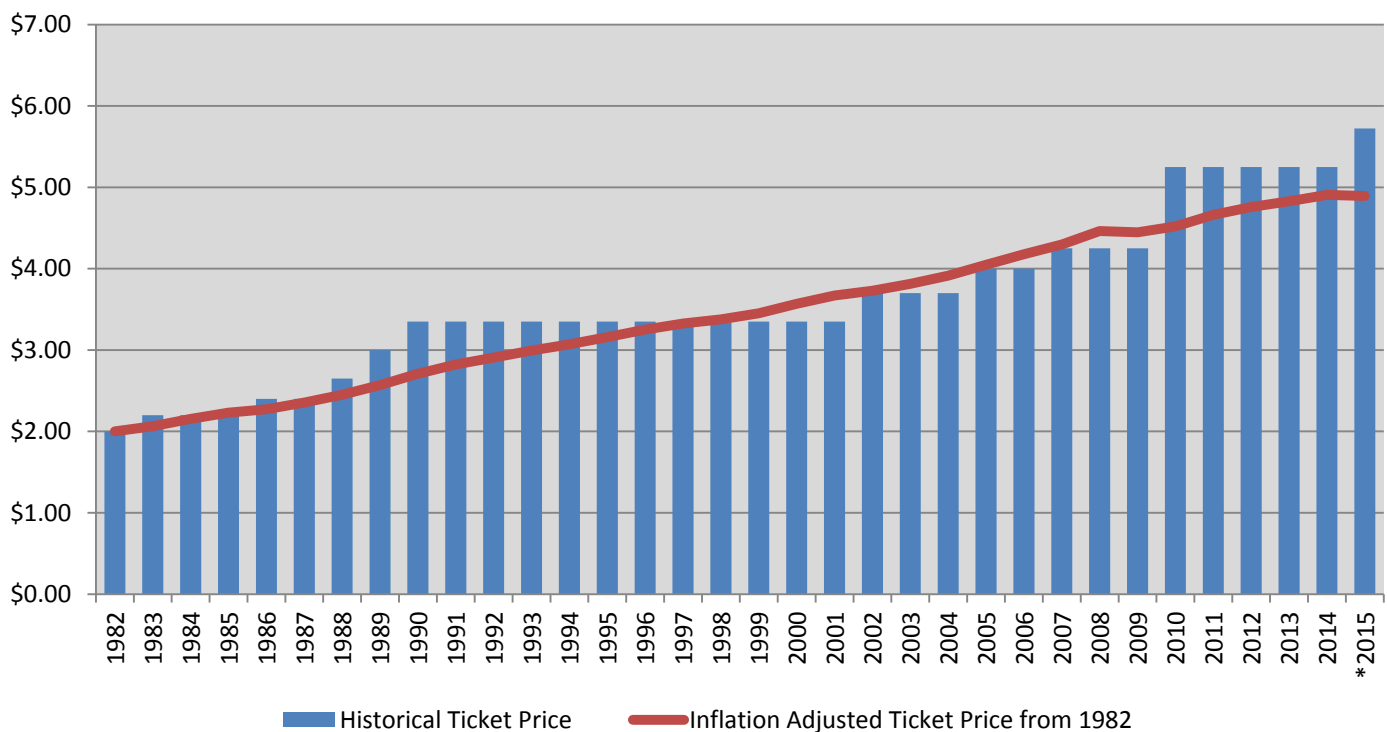

Clifton to Hoboken Terminal

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Clifton to Hoboken Terminal will have outpaced inflation by 17 to 26 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$2.00	$16.75	$56.00	$5.72	$51.78	$170.04	16.9%	26.3%	24.1%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Clifton to Hoboken

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

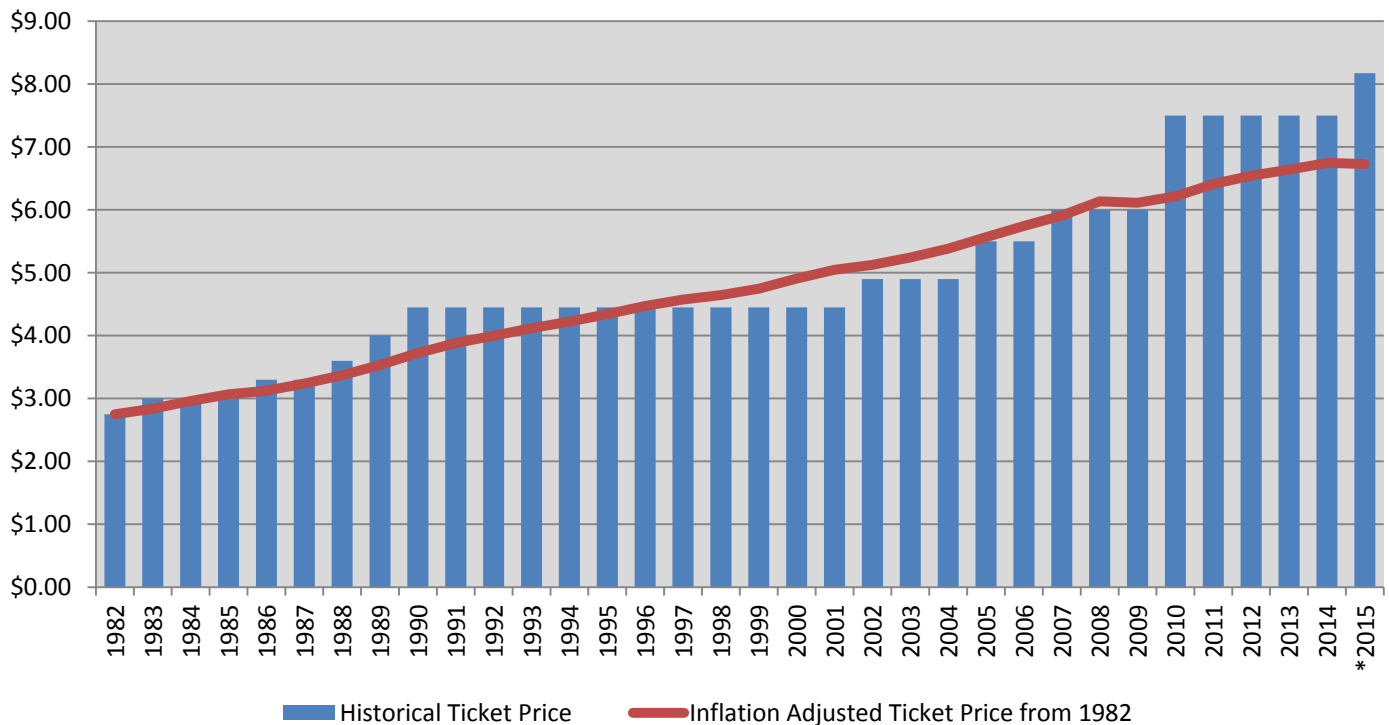

Glen Rock to Hoboken Terminal

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Glen Rock to Hoboken Terminal will have outpaced inflation by 20 to 22 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$2.75	$23.00	$77.00	$8.18	$68.67	$226.72	21.4%	22.0%	20.3%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Glen Rock to Hoboken

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

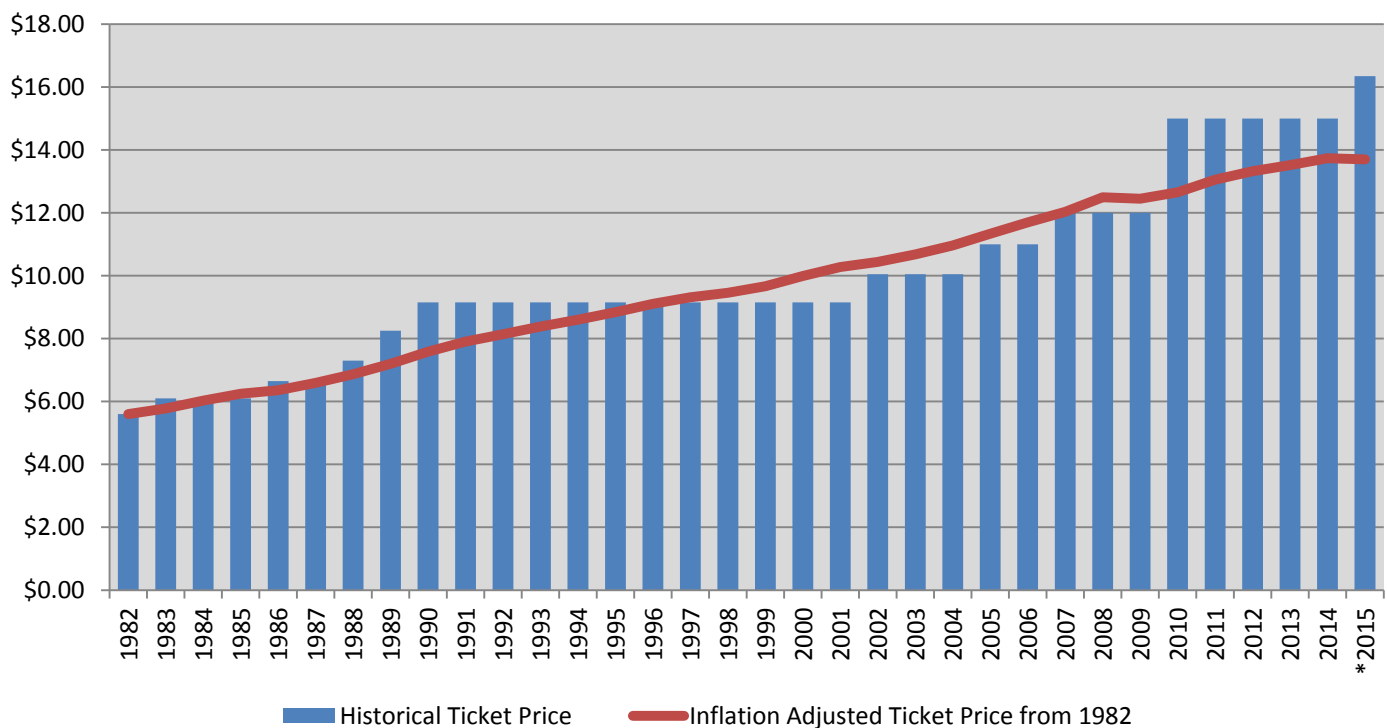

Long Branch to New York Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Long Branch to New York Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 19 to 23 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$5.60	$46.75	$156.00	$16.35	$141.16	$463.25	19.3%	23.4%	21.4%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Long Branch to NY Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

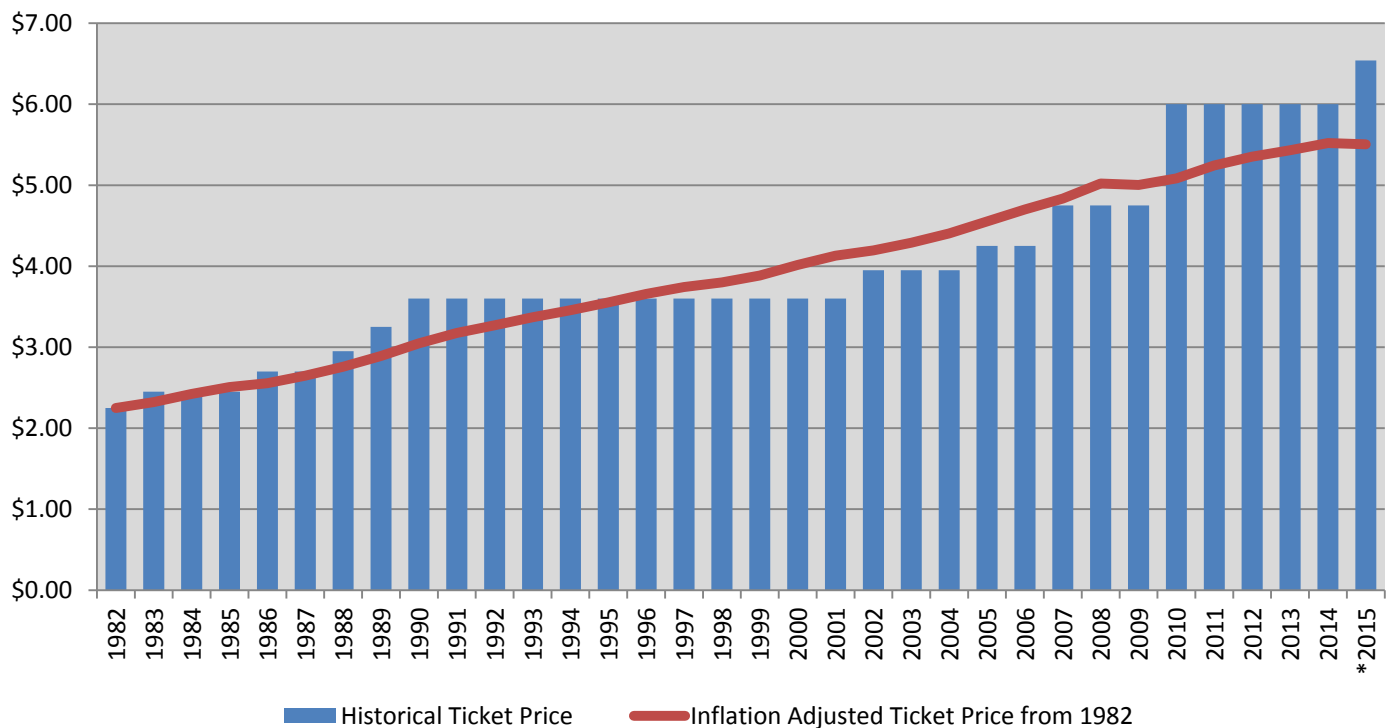

Metropark to Newark Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Metropark to Newark Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 18 to 19 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on one way and monthly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$2.25	$19.00	$63.00	$6.54	$55.05	$183.12	18.8%	18.4%	18.8%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Metropark to Newark Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

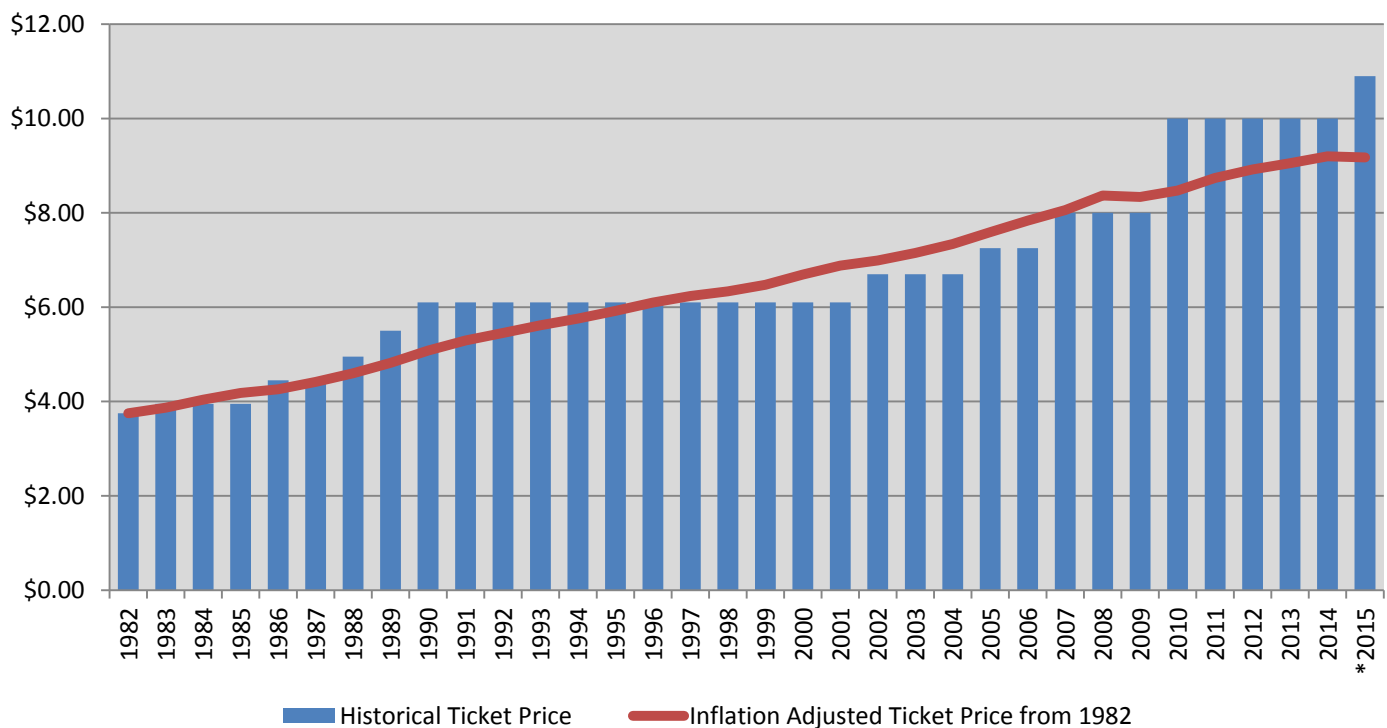

Metropark to New York Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Metropark to New York Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 19 to 21 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$3.75	$31.50	$105.00	$10.90	$93.20	$309.56	18.8%	20.9%	20.5%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Metropark to NY Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

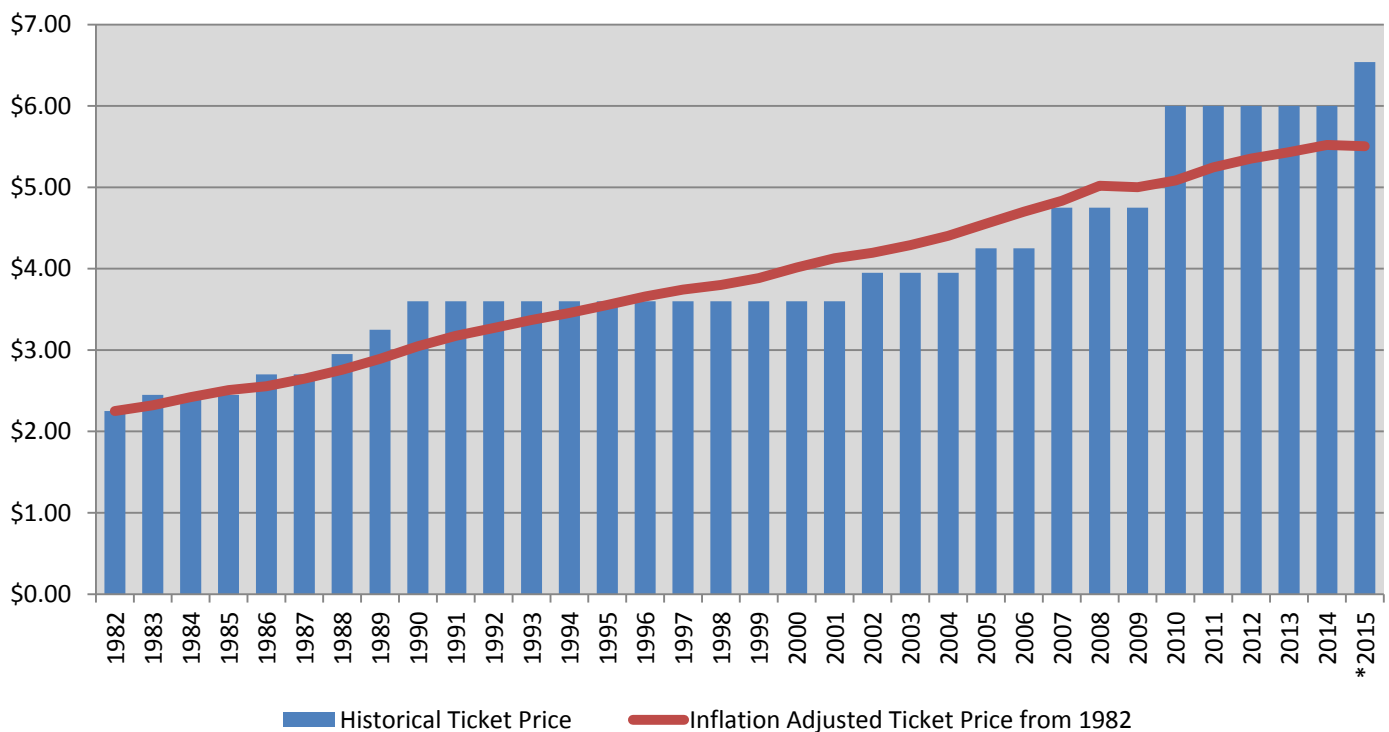

Montclair Heights to Hoboken Terminal

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Montclair Heights to Hoboken Terminal will have outpaced inflation by 18 to 19 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on one way and monthly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$2.25	$19.00	$63.00	$6.54	$55.05	$183.12	18.8%	18.4%	18.8%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Montclair Heights to Hoboken

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

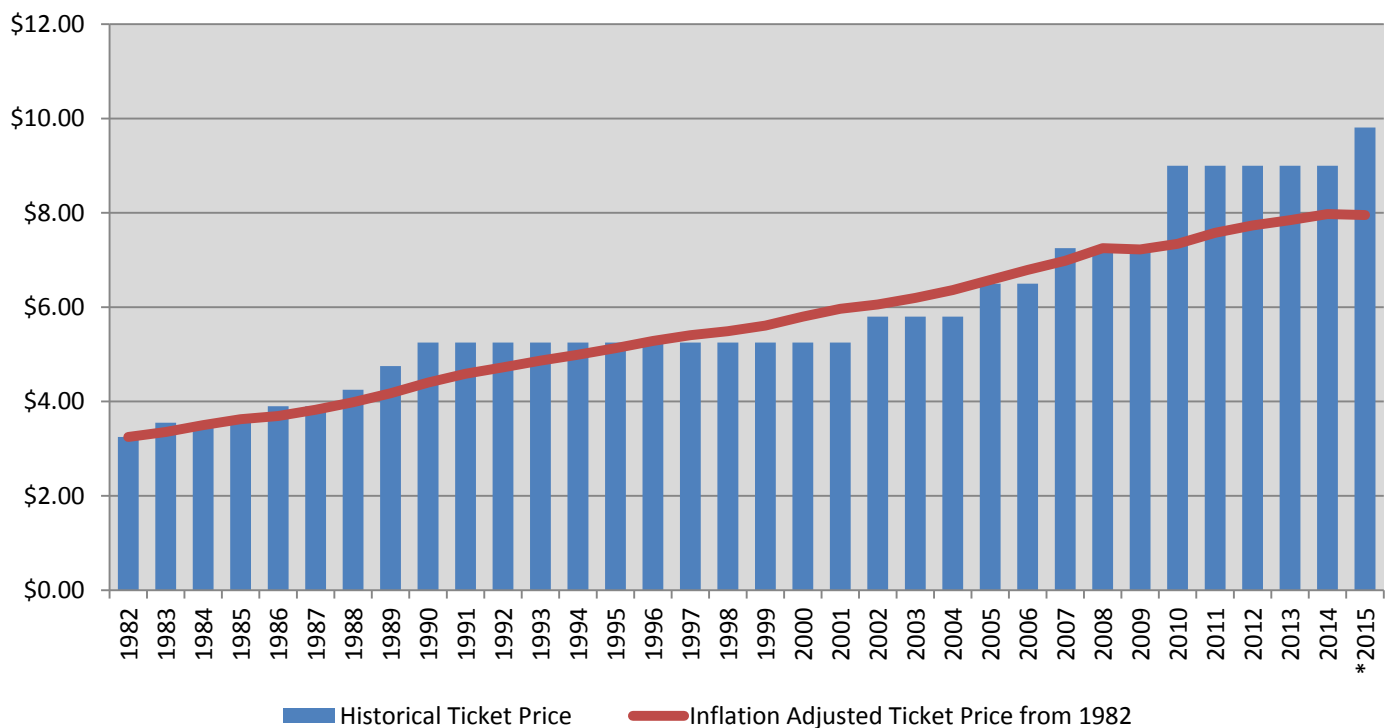

Park Ridge to Hoboken Terminal

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Park Ridge to Hoboken Terminal will have outpaced inflation by 21 to 23 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$3.25	$27.25	$91.00	$9.81	$82.30	$270.32	23.4%	23.4%	21.4%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Park Ridge to Hoboken

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

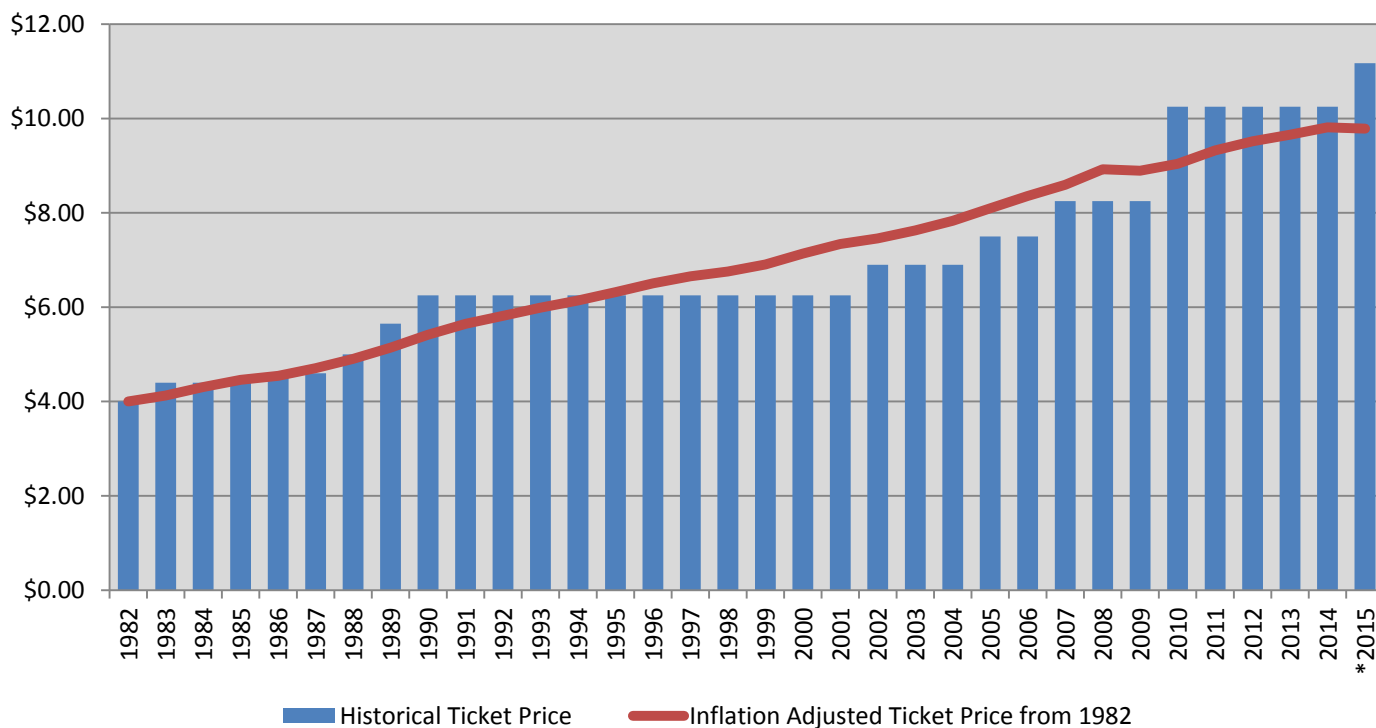

Raritan to Newark Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Raritan to Newark Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 14 to 18 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$4.00	$33.50	$112.00	$11.17	$97.01	$317.19	14.2%	18.4%	15.7%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Raritan to Newark Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

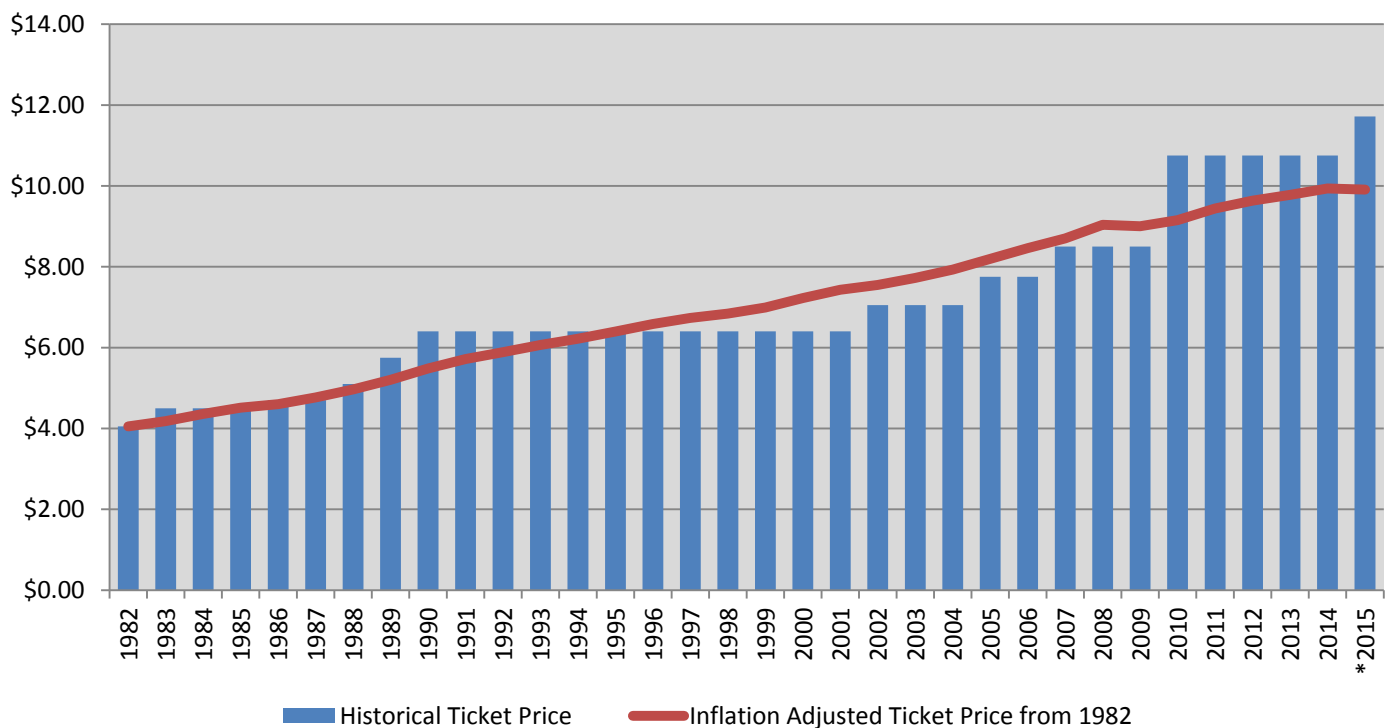

Red Bank to Newark Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Red Bank to Newark Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 18 to 19 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$4.05	$34.00	$113.00	$11.72	$98.65	$325.91	18.2%	18.6%	17.9%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Red Bank to Newark Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

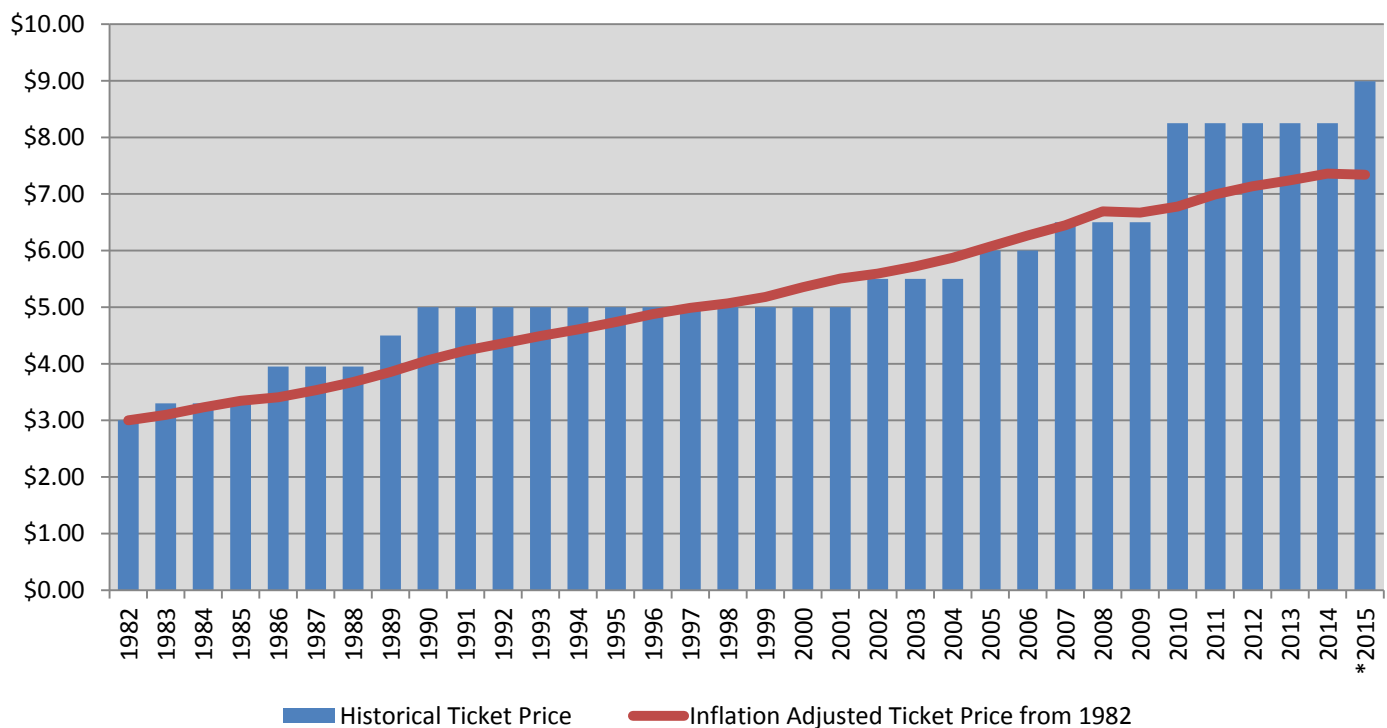

Summit to Hoboken Terminal

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Summit to Hoboken Terminal will have outpaced inflation by 23 to 24 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$3.00	$25.25	$84.00	$8.99	$76.85	$253.97	22.5%	24.4%	23.6%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Summit to Hoboken

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

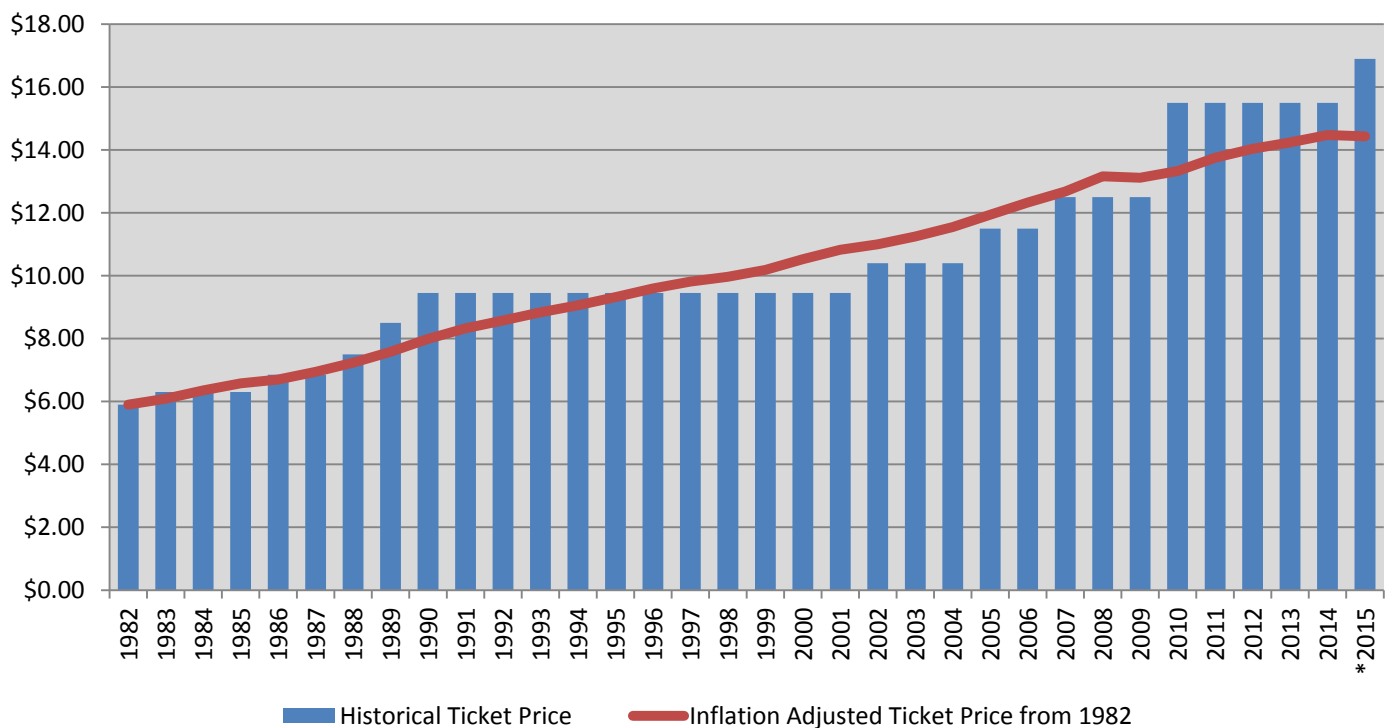

Trenton to New York Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Trenton to New York Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 17 to 20 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$5.90	$49.75	$166.00	$16.90	$146.06	$479.60	17.0%	20.0%	18.1%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Trenton to NY Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)

NJ TRANSIT A Fare History

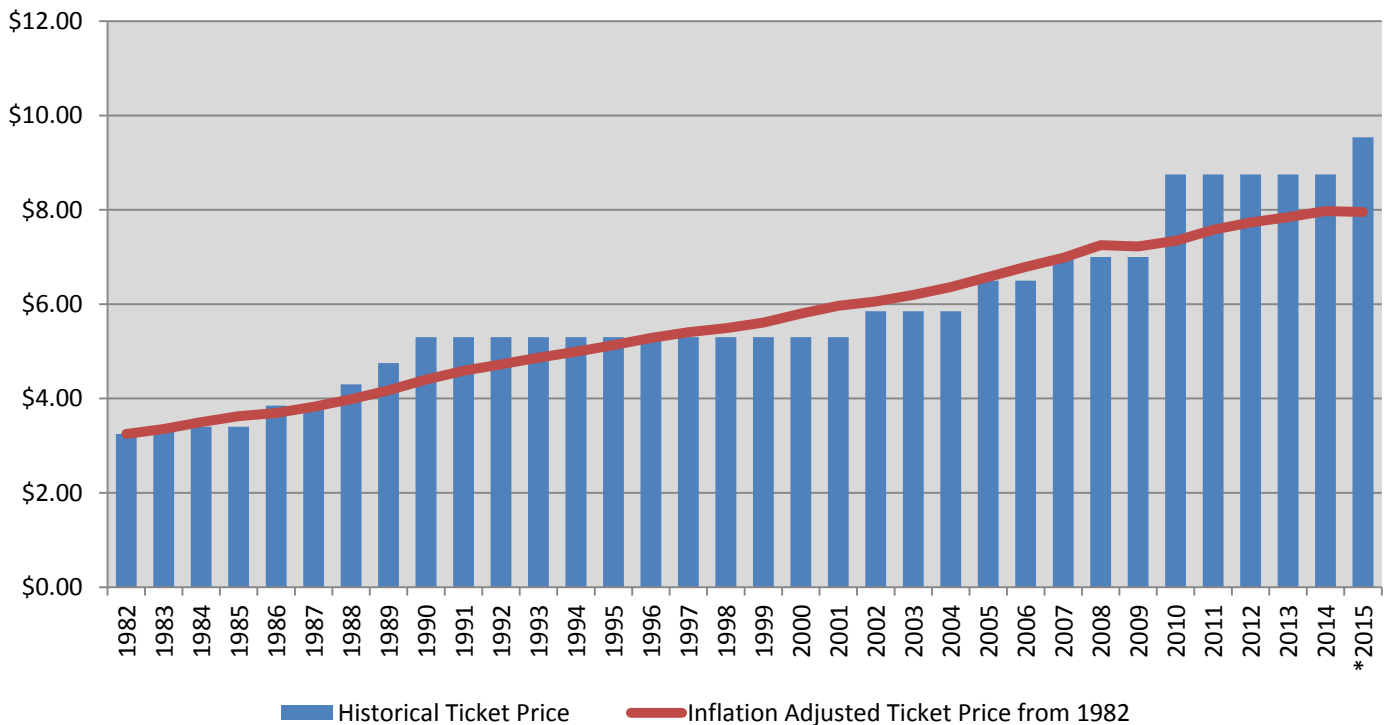

Westfield to New York Penn Station

After a nine percent increase, the cost of a ticket from Westfield to New York Penn Station will have outpaced inflation by 20 to 23 percent since 1982. New Jersey Transit ticket prices have been outstripping inflation since 2010. Tri-State analyzed three ticket types on this route and found that the largest increases on this route have fallen on weekly ticket holders.

Fares from 1982 Compared to Today after Inflation

1982			After 2015 Fare Hike*			Percentage Increase*
One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly	One Way	Weekly	Monthly
$3.25	$27.25	$91.00	$9.54	$82.30	$270.32	19.9%	23.4%	21.4%

Price of One-Way Ticket from Westfield to NY Penn

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

NJ TRANSIT A Gas Tax Comparison

After peaking in 1990, the real value of New Jersey gas taxes has fallen since 1982. During the same time, the real cost of New Jersey Transit has increased, indicating that New Jersey is shifting the burden from drivers to transit users.

* Assumes a 2015 9.0% fare increase as proposed by New Jersey Transit

Data source: TSTC analysis of New Jersey Transit historical fare prices & The Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (ITEP) analysis of historical gas tax rates (May 2014)